Drexel University	Eat Right Philly	Resource and Program	Going into the health classes (Including EOP) teaching students about basic nutrition concepts and how to apply them into their lives to make more mindful choices. We would like to really work on some wellness initiatives at the school this year. If you would like us to continue to support hydration let me know. We can continue to provide reusable water bottles for all the students and plan some stuff to support this initiative. We are open to providing support with other wellness initiatives as desired by the school. We have also provided our Fruit and Veggie of the month program which exposes students to a tasting of our featured fruit or veggie each month. We'd also like to continue to support the Pantry and Community closet and any gardening support.	Melissa Matsumura - Assistant Director	mdm369@drexel.edu
Community College of Philadelphia	Upward Bound Program	College prep and cultural enrichment activities	The TRIO Upward Bound program provides academic support, cultural enrichment activities and assistance with the college application and financial aid process for 68 eligible participants yearly. Services include afterschool tutoring, a twice monthly Saturday enrichment program, monthly one-on-one academic advising, as well as 7 week summer program. Participants must be from a low-income household, be the first in their family to earn a college degree and attend South Philadelphia, Ben Franklin, Building 21 or Furness High Schools. CHOP	Health Resource Center	Resource and Program	The HRC at Southern is a place where students can receive free and confidential counseling, education and referrals based on having a better understanding of sexual and reproductive health. Ms. Sam, the Health Resource Coordinator, will be located in the nurses office on Wednesdays and Thursday afternoons. Through the HRC, students have access to; free condoms, free birth control facts, information, and referrals; abstinence, sexual responsibility, and healthy relationship discussions; help with scheduling appointments at CHOP and local clinics; answers to questions about sexual and reproductive health; referrals for free and confidential STI screenings; and more. I am also happy to support in the classroom, whether it be facilitating class or small group discussions- or offering an educational presentation with fun activities. Finally- if teachers are interested in having a small, HRC dedicated space in their classroom, I am happy to provide whatever supplies that calls for, including a basket for free condoms, pamphlets based on sexual and reproductive health, gender identity, healthy relationships, etc.	Sam Epstein - Health Resource Coordinator	epsteins2@chop.edu

SEAMAAC	Hip Hop Heritage	Resource and Program	SEAMAAC's Hip Hop Heritage (H3) After School Program's mission is to build and support the next generation of artists in Philadelphia. H3 is a project-based learning program focusing on the hip hop arts, we focus on graffiti, music production, breakdancing, photography, and youth leadership. Using both inside and outside spaces to practice our skills, we will be working on everything from mural projects, to screenprinting and airbrushing, to beatmaking, songwriting, and recording. Our goal for the Hip Hop Heritage After School Program is to provide a space for anyone who is interested in the arts, in Hip Hop, or who is looking for a place for creative expression. SEAMAAC, as an organization, provide a wide variety of community services, ranging from free COVID testing to a weekly food pantry and grocery delivery for elders, to ESL programming, as well as the Wyss Center at Bok. We are excited to work together with our Teaching Artists in our classroom in room 515, or connect you with one of our other team members at SEAMAAC! Our program will run Monday - Friday from 2:30-5:30PM, or check out our instagram page @hiphopheritage !	Dominic Brennan - Youth Programs Coordinator	dbrennan@seamaac.org
Project 440	Doing Good	Program	Project 440's Doing Good program meets after school on Mondays and Thursdays from 4:30 to 6:30 pm. Doing Good teaches the basics of social entrepreneurship, leadership, and service over the course of 12 weeks. In the first six weeks of class, students will learn transferable skills including how to create a budget, goalsetting, project planning, teamwork, and more. In the remaining weeks of class, they will apply these skills and work in a group of up to five students to develop and implement their own community service project inspired by music. Transportation stipends are provided and students who meet participation and attendance requirements earn a stipend of up to $825. PLEASE NOTE: While an interest in music is encouraged, students do not need prior musical knowledge or experience to participate in Doing Good. Students who have any interest in music and musicians across all genres, skill levels, and experiences are encouraged and welcome to participate! Learn more at https://project440.org/doinggood . Project 440	Instruments for Success	Program	Project 440's Instruments for Success (IFS) is a 10 week course that meets afterschool on Wednesdays from 4:30 to 6:30 pm and focuses on college readiness and career pathways. IFS is open to students in ninth through twelfth grades. Wherever a student is in their search process, our college search and admissions experts will teach students what they need to select the school that is right for them. Students will create materials that they can use during the application process including a personal statement and college essay. The will also learn how to prepare for auditions and interviews, and all about financial aid. Students will also learn about different career paths in music and the performing arts from a diverse roster of guest lecturers. Transportation stipends are provided and students who meet participation and attendance requirements earn a stipend of up to $200. Please Note: while one of the ten sessions is geared for students who want to study music in college, the majority of the class will appeal to any student who wants to learn more about the college application process.
